

The Sun is a very big ball of hot gases. The flame of a candle is also hot gases. If you look closely at the candle, you can see brighter and darker spots in the flame. The hot gases of the Sun also show darker and lighter spots, and the gases move and flow.